Tentacles Reached to All Parts of U. S., Violent Deaths Are Seen

"BLACK BOXES" OPENED

Most Prominent Men of Indiana Involved in Actions, It Is Claimed

Washington Ind July 25—That D C Stephenson former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in Indiana now serving a life sentence for the Madge Oberholtzer murder had established a super government whose tentacles reached to all parts of the United States and through whose history ran a crimson skein of violent deaths was revealed by Emsley W Johnson special Marion County Prosecutor here today just before he left for Indianapolis with more than 1000 letters photographs and other documents found in the now famous pair of black boxes of Stephenson.

The letters which Johnson stated he had culled from more than 10,000 documents submitted to him here by a "mysterious stranger" at the direction of Stephenson himself contained positive proof of criminal law violations on the part of high state and city officials of Indiana he said.

Involve Notables

The exhibits which may become foundations for criminal actions against some of the most prominent men in Indiana according to Johnson consist of Stephenson's checkbooks photographs carbon copies of letters written by Stephenson and of letters received by him.

Johnson said he would immediately go into conference with Prosecutor William H Remy of Marion County upon his arrival in Indianapolis today and present the evidence to him.

"I was astounded to see proof that many of the most prominent men in Indiana—men whom I never would have suspected of having any dealings with Stephenson—had been involved in his transactions" Johnson said. "It is not our intention to besmirch the character of anyone associated with Stephen-

D. W. BENEDICT INJURED WHILE FIGHTING FLAMES

Rear Section of Waldo Residence Destroyed in Gasoline Fire

D W Benedict employe of the H Ackerman Music Store was painfully burned about the head and face in fighting flames which threatened his home at Waldo yesterday noon. His condition was reported as fair today.

The rear section of the Benedict home was destroyed by the fire which started when gasoline stove tank which Mrs Benedict was filling overflowed. The liquid ignited and set fire to the kitchen. Mrs Benedict escaped.

Thinking that his wife was still in the kitchen and perhaps at the mercy of the flames Mr Benedict rushed to the kitchen door and made an effort to quench the fire with a bucket of water. Clouds of steam seared his face and head.

The Waldo fire department extinguished the blaze with chemicals. Persons returning from services at a nearby church assisted in fighting the fire. No estimate was placed on the damage. The loss is covered by insurance.

MAN, 63, ELECTROCUTED

Akron July 25—Charles J Wekinger 63 an engineer at the B F Goodrich Co., was electrocuted when he came in contact with a live wire at the company's power station. It was the second death by accidental electrocution here within a month.

Marion Man, Father of Four, Builds and Flies Own Plane Without Instructions or Blue Prints; Falls to Earth Once

AN aviator believed to have a record unequalled in the annals of aerial navigation has been discovered in Marion.

There may be many other airplane pilots who rank as his superiors in various lines of achievement but in his particular field he stands in a class all his own.

While Lindbergh has his name inscribed in the hall of fame as the first sky voyager to span the Atlantic alone and other noteworthy flyers hold altitude, distance and speed records Carl Ferguson of this city is believed to have no rival for this distinction.

He made his own airplane and then taught himself how to operate it.

As far as investigation of the records of aerial navigation has gone thus far no other person is credited with a similar achievement.

There have been homemade airplanes beyond doubt but no self trained pilots.

FERGUSON'S AIRPLANE

IT can truthfully be said that Ferguson who is 35 years old and lives with his wife and family of four children in a modest home at the rear of 540 Woodlawn has obtained his aviation training literally in the school of hard knocks.

It was only after several test flights in which his plane indulged in weird and dizzy gymnastics and performed other unruly stunts extremely hazardous for its driver that Ferguson finally reached the point where he could soar serenely and safely and come down without being in danger of ripping out a large section of terra firma.

Ferguson is certain now, after these experiences that he is able to fly and that his airplane is sturdy enough to stand the hardest kind of usage.

Persistence daring, natural mechanical genius and an indomitable determination to become an aviator are the factors which brought about Ferguson's achievement.

CARL FERGUSON

SEVERAL years ago, he states he decided that he wanted to learn how to become an aerial pilot. During his earlier years he had taken part in speed events finally becoming a professional in all the races. This developed a disregard for danger and love of thrills and excitement. With the [illegible] ever he aspired to aerial [illegible] for a new field of adventure.

He communicated with aviation schools and found that the lowest fee was [illegible]. As [illegible] Ferguson decided to make up his mind to solve the problem by building his own plane and then learn to operate it with no assistance.

Ferguson has a natural understanding of most mechanical devices and the principles involved in their operation and construction of the airplane was a comparatively easy matter although it took him about a year to complete it.

He did the work in evenings and during other time off from his duties at the Osgood Co. plant where he is employed as a welder.

His workshop where the plane was built and assembled is a 16 by 18 building at the rear of his home.

ABOUT May 1 the machine was ready for its first test. It had been built in a rather hit and miss fashion mostly guesswork as Ferguson relates. He used no blueprints and had no model only a few pictures of standard airplanes and some crude drawings made by the architect providing him with directions.

But when completed it looked like an airplane and looked as though it ought to fly. Ferguson was sure it would.

He had whittled out a propeller

FARMER NEAR AGOSTA TAKES LIFE WITH GUN

Suicide Motive of John Calvin Ice, 48, Remains Mystery

LaRue July 25—Leaving no word for members of the family to whom the motive is a mystery John Calvin Ice 48 a farmer of near Agosta took his own life with a shotgun last night.

Frank Munson farm hand on the Ice farm found the body in the front yard when he went to call Mr Ice to supper at about 9 o'clock. The charge of the 12 gauge shotgun went almost through his body striking just above the heart.

Coroner B D Osborn investigated the case last night and declared death due to suicide with firearms.

Mrs Ice has been visiting the past week with relatives in Mannington, W Va., original home of the family. She was notified of her husband's death and was expected here today. Funeral arrangements were not made pending her return.

During Mrs. Ice's absence Mr Ice and Munson had been keeping house. Munson was preparing the evening meal and did not hear the fatal shot.

John Calvin Ice was born in Mannington W Va and had followed the occupation of a farmer practically his entire life. He moved to this community five years ago from Indiana. Surviving besides the widow are two sons Ora and Oral both at home two brothers A J Ice Dalga Colo and William of Middletown Ind and two sisters Mrs Verda Rogers Cedar and Mrs Depha Falkington of West Virginia.

GOING TO CAPITAL

Lieutenants Hegenberger and Maitland Leave for Washington

Boston, July 25—Lieuts. Albert Hegenberger and Lester J Maitland, of Hawaiian flight fame, hopped off from the East Boston Airport at 10 42 o'clock today in their three motored plane.

After flying over the city for about 15 minutes they continued on to their flight to Mitchel Field N. Y. The stop at Mitchel Field will be for fuel only and they will then go on to Bolling Field Washington.

Porter Adams, president of the National Aeronautic Association and Capt. Burdette Wright, of the army air corps, were passengers.

LINDBERGH WILL VISIT HERRICK IN CLEVELAND

Cleveland, July 25—Col Charles Lindbergh will come to Cleveland next Monday in the Spirit of St Louis the plane which he flew across the Atlantic and will remain here two days following the celebration in honor of himself and Ambassador Myron T Herrick it was announced today.

Ambassador Herrick who acted as the flier's "social adviser" in Paris, is confined to a local hospital as the result of a minor operation, and will be unable to take part in the celebration. Lindbergh will visit him in the hospital and will be the guest of his son Parmely Herrick for two nights and a day at the Herrick home in Chagrin Valley.

CANCEL POLICE VACATIONS AS STRIKE NEARS

New York Prepares for Walk-out of Rail Workers Tuesday Night

New York, July 25—Police vacations were cancelled today as New York marshaled its forces for the impending subway strike.

Strike breakers from Philadelphia and Pittsburgh hired by the I R T reported for duty and were taken under guard to the company's strike barracks, at the transportation yards. Other contingents were expected today from Washington Baltimore and Chicago. The first to arrive said they were promised 90 cents an hour 12 hours a day and their keep. The pay amounts to $100.80 a week.

The first to arrive 150 from Pittsburgh and 50 from Philadelphia were young well dressed men appearing more like clerks than railway workers. They said they had signed regular Interborough applications for work and that they were told they were reporting for strike duty.

Defections in the ranks of Interborough employes even before the strike call which was not expected before tomorrow night were indicated today when between 200 and 300 of I R T employes reported sick. Company welfare workers were sent to investigate the cases.

Indications were that the conciliation meeting called for tomorrow by Mayor Walker would be without effect with neither the I R T or the B M T represented.

New York began today to mobilize for the threatened strike.

Taxicab companies are planning to put extra cabs in operation for continuous day and night service.

Thousands of automobile owners are getting ready to turn their machines into temporary taxicabs.

COUPE CRASHES INTO DITCH, COUPLE HURT

Akron Woman Owner of Auto: Man and Woman in City Hospital

Two persons a man and a woman both middle aged are in City Hospital probably fatally injured the result of an automobile accident on the Bucyrus road three miles north of the city at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Attaches at City Hospital were unable to give the condition of the patients at press hour.

The couple were from Akron and according to the Akron Automobile Club the license was issued to Rosetta Johns, 821 Princeton st. The license number was 577-061 and the car was a Chevrolet coupe.

The initials on the man's hat and watch were "W. F. S."

At press hour it could not be learned whether or not the machine was going at a fast rate of speed and sustained a blowout of one of the tires. At the scene of the accident it was stated that the car began to weave and crashed into the ditch. The car was badly damaged. It was said the woman was driving.

Farmers Will Wreak Havoc With Party Lines Unless Aid Given, Hammill Warns

Farm Relief Certain To Be Dominant Issue in 1928 Presidential Campaign, Session of Governors Reveals; Tariff Will Be Studied Thoroughly, Easterners Told

Mackinac Island Mich July 25—The controversial issue of farm relief which already has caused a partial split in both major parties injected itself today into the annual conference of governors with such vigor as to make certain its being one of the dominant political issues in the 1928 presidential campaign.

The chief executives of two dozen states had hardly settled in their seats here today for their annual conclave before they were regaled with a rousing speech from Gov John Hammill, Republican of Iowa in which he warned his conservative colleagues from the east that either the farmers of the country are going to obtain relief or they are going to wreak havoc with political party lines.

Addressing directly those governors representing populous industrial states of the east that profit by a high protective tariff, the Iowa insurgent said:

"In my part of the country the people have been [illegible] of the protective tariff. I can sum up the present tariff attitude in the statement that we want a method through which tariff schedules can be made effective as applied to our farm cash crops. The western farmer in the future will study the tariff as they never have done in the past and will exert their influence in the direction which they determine to be for their best interests regardless of their past political and economic affiliations."

Pleads for Aid Bill

Passing to the [illegible] the Iowa governor continued with an earnest plea for the McNary Haugen Bill which was passed by the last congress and vetoed promptly by President Coolidge.

The farmers he said in asking that present day acts and functions of government which operate to their disadvantage be offset by a consistent program of agricultural protection are doing precisely what other groups have done under pressure in the past and what they will continue to do whenever class inequality bears down on any considerable group in the future. "The farmer has no apologies to offer for his efforts."

It is useless Governor Hammill de-

FIVE ACCUSED OF STONING MAGISTRATE TO DEATH

Justice of Peace Gives Life in Attempt To Disband Drunken Group

Charleston W Va, July 25—Preliminary hearing was to be given here today before a magistrate for five men accused of stoning to death William H Thomas justice of the peace, Elk District at Pinch near here, Sunday afternoon.

The accused men it was claimed, had been drinking when Thomas approached them with the intention of asking them to go to their homes.

Emory Davis it was alleged started an argument and then grappled with Thomas the other four men aiding Davis.

Foster Lyle a police said stunned Thomas by hitting him with a stone after which it was claimed the men beat Thomas until his face was beyond recognition.

Constable Jim Phillips arrested four of the men while state troopers apprehended the fifth man. All were in jail here while county officials and state troopers are rounding up witnesses and obtaining evidence.

HOLD TWO IN RING

Pair Believed in Gang That Disposed of $25,000 in Stolen Cars

Toledo, July 25—James Mason 21 and Ralph Coates 20 were held by police here today while a third man was being sought in connection with an alleged auto theft ring reported to have disposed of stolen cars valued at $25,000. The stolen vehicles were said to have been routed from [illegible] through Toledo to Detroit and Flint Mich. Police said the prisoners will be turned over to federal authorities.

FATHER KILLED ON WAY TO GET DOCTOR FOR WIFE

Sidney, July 25—A widow and eight children today survive Frank Chapple 42, whose accidental death occurred while returning to his home three miles northeast of Versailles after driving here to notify a physician that a baby was expected at the Chapple home.

The child was born an hour after its father's tragic death.

Chapple was badly mangled when an eastbound Big Four train hit his car. He died enroute to a hospital here.

BISHOP BROWN DIES IN HOTEL IN LONDON, ENG.

London July 25—William Cabell Brown, 66 Protestant Episcopal bishop of Virginia, died of heart disease today in the Victoria Hotel here.

Mrs. Brown was with her husband at his death.

Bishop and Mrs. Brown registered their address as 901 Hawthorne av., Richmond, Va.

ARMOUR'S CONDITION REMAINS STATIONARY

Lenox, July 25—The condition of J. Ogden Armour, Chicago multimillionaire, who is suffering from typhoid fever has remained stationary during the last 24 hours.

Mr Armour's condition showed no improvement today although he had a restful night, Mrs Armour said.

PLANE CATCHES FIRE 7 MILES ABOVE EARTH

Lieut. C. C. Champion, Jr., Reaches Altitude of Between 43,000 and 45,000 Feet

BEATS OUT FRENCHMAN

Sends Ship Into Nose Dive and Sprays Chemical on Blaze

Washington July 25—Lieut C C Champion Jr crack navy flier this morning broke the world's altitude record.

The altimeter on his land plane showed that Champion went up between 43,000 and 45,000 feet. The present record is 40,820 feet, held by Callizo a Frenchman. The altimeter will be checked by the bureau of standards before the record is officially credited.

After making the record, Champion had a narrow escape when a cylinder head broke and he made a forced landing near Bolling Field. He maneuvered the plane successfully, however and was uninjured. The plane was not materially damaged.

Plane Catches Fire

Champion had an amazing escape from death when his plane caught fire in midair. He was seven miles above the ground when the broken cylinder ignited the fuselage around the engine. Sending his plane into a nose dive, and holding the "joy stick" with his knees, Champion sprayed the flames with a small fire extinguisher. He continued this extraordinary fire-fighting while diving seven miles to earth.

Spectators saw the smoke trailing his plane as he fell through the skies but the flames were extinguished when they reached the side of the plane after he landed. Champion immediately left for the navy department to make a personal report on his flight.

Uses Service Plane

On May 5 Champion established a new altitude record for seaplanes when he climbed 33,455 feet.

Champion used a regular service Wright Apache plane. Carl F Schory, secretary of the test committee of the National Aeronautic Association, was the official witness to the record breaking flight.

Few persons had been advised that Champion would attempt to smash the record this morning. Only a handful of fellow officers were at the station to congratulate him.

Champion started up shortly before 7 o'clock.

MONSIGNOR DENNING IS REPORTED NEAR DEATH

Former Marion Pastor, Ill in Cincinnati, Not Expected To Live Through Day

The condition of Monsignor Joseph M Denning pastor of the Blessed Sacrament Church, Price Hill, Cincinnati, former pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church this city is reported to be critical according to word received by friends here late this afternoon. Little hope is held out that he will survive throughout the day.

Monsignor Denning underwent an operation for the removal of gall stones several weeks ago at the Jewish Hospital Cincinnati, and for a time his condition was thought to be improving and hopes were entertained for his recovery.

HOP-OFF DELAYED

Stormy Weather Holds Up Flight of Courtney to America

Southampton Eng July 25—Stormy weather over the Atlantic today caused another postponement of Capt. Frank T. Courtney's transoceanic flight to New York. The British air ace planned a trial flight this morning to test out the motor and the radio apparatus, but said he would not attempt a hop off on his westward flight over the Atlantic until weather conditions improved.

At the Calshot Naval Air Depot it was stated that Courtney's flying boat is in condition for the long flight. The tanks will be kept filled with fuel so that the airmen can take immediate advantage of a break in the storms.

ACCUSE COLORED MAN OF WOUNDING DAYTONITE

Dayton July 25—Walter Dunlap, 22, today is suffering from five bullet wounds in his face one of which destroyed the sight of an eye. Jack Lewis, 35, colored, accused of doing the shooting disappeared.

Police said that Lewis started out "gunning" for the person, or persons who stole 150 bottles of home brew from the Lewis home Friday night. Dunlap was driving past the Lewis home, it was stated, when Lewis is alleged to have shot him.

FLYING OFFICER DIES

London, July 25—Flying Officer Anderson, of the Royal Air Force, was burned to death today at the Northolt aerodrome when a plane in which he was returning from the London air manoeuvers collided with another plane and crashed in flames.

Marion Slips Back Into Winning Stride; Rizor Gets Another Circuit Wallop

Locals Have Two Big Innings Before Bartlome Settles Down; Oberlin's Last-Inning Rally Called to Sudden Halt as Athletics Win

MARION ATHLETICS [illegible] their winning [illegible] afternoon [illegible] the Motors of Oberlin 11 to 6 [illegible] Park.

But Oberlin was finally [illegible] after counting four last-minute tallies and—all's well that ends well.

Each team collected 11 hits. [illegible] Marion added with five errors on the part of its opponents made their bingles count for five more runs than the [illegible]. The Athletics made only two miscues during the fracas.

Two Big Innings

Marion had two big innings, the first and the fourth, scoring five runs in each of the frames. The other counter came in the third inning. [illegible] locals were held scoreless and received only one hit in the final four innings of the contest. Rizor's home run accounted for two runs in the first inning, after Price had brought Bacon and Rowan [illegible] the plate. Reese reached first on a walk and scored on Brashears' single for the fifth tally of the initial frame.

Three hits, a walk and two errors resulted in five more runs for Marion in the fourth.

Mann allowed 11 hits but kept them well scattered over the nine innings. Oberlin received one run in the second inning, scored another in the sixth and then threatened to tie the count in the ninth.

Rizor and Price

Rizor and Price occupied the spotlight yesterday. Price collected three hits out of five times to bat and made two runs. Rizor gathered two double plays, and was given the only [illegible] of the Marion crew.

Bartlome, [illegible] had [illegible] tough luck in Marion's two big innings but settled down to business in the last four stanzas and acted like a pitcher with some ability. He struck out five during the tilt while Mann received only three strike outs. Each showed three bases on balls.

A double steal by Rowan and Bacon in the first inning furnished one of the few thrills seen at Lincoln Park yesterday.

MARION BINGOS BEAT CLARIDON NINE, 5-0

Win Sixth Game of Season, Rife and Walker Batteries

The Marion Bingos won their sixth game of the season in the Tri-County League yesterday when they trimmed Claridon 5 to 0 on the latter's grounds.

Rife pitched for the locals and Walker and Merchant were on the receiving end.

The Bingos have lost only one game in the Tri-County League so far this season, meeting defeat a week ago at the hands of Harpster, a newcomer in the league.

SCHEDULE FIRST TILT FOR TENNIS QUEEN

Helen Wills Will Play in Essex Country Club Tourney

Manchester By The Sea, Mass., July 25—Helen Wills, America's tennis queen, is to play today her first singles match in the United States this year at the Essex Country Club tournament.

The California tennis star returned recently to the United States from England where she won the Wimbledon singles championship, regarded as equivalent to the tennis championship of the world.

Another prominent player entered in the tournament here is Mrs. Molla Mallory, who succeeded to the singles championship last fall when Miss Wills was forced to vacate the title due to illness.

GOT A NICKEL?

Here's the Greatest Treat in the Whole Smoking World for 5c

Go ahead and doubt it. You can't be blamed. For you've been hearing all your life about 5c cigars that are "really worth more." No doubt you've been disappointed more than once too!

Just the same—a good 5c cigar is possible and Harvester Ribbon is its name. Here's the difference. Harvester Ribbon sold at a higher price for years. Sold big! And just because it did pile up such volume sales it is now possible to make the price a nickel. A downright good cigar—regardless of price. With all the mellowness and body that comes from ripe tobacco.

Try it. Step into a nearby cigar store—today—and ask for Harvester Ribbon. It will cost you just a nickel. But you'll forget the price the minute that mellow, mildness and friendly fragrance start talking to your taste!

REDS, YANKEES AND DETROIT GOING STRONG

League Leaders in National Race Are Falling Down

NEW YORK, July 25—The Cincinnati Reds, the New York Yankees and the Detroit Tigers are making the best records in the majors these days, while the White Sox, Athletics and [illegible] are making the worst showings. The Reds and Yanks both have won six of their last seven games.

All [illegible] the Pirates have won only six of their last 11 games; they have [illegible] lost first place by .003 from the Cubs, who [illegible] completely on their [illegible].

The Cubs, who had won eight [illegible], lost to Brooklyn [illegible] the Robins have lost nine in 10 innings. The [illegible] the nightcap, however, 7 to 4.

The firm of Waner Bros., manufacturers of base hits, is keeping the [illegible] Paul and Lloyd each [illegible] as the Bucs split a twin bill with the Giants. Pittsburgh scored six runs in one inning in taking the opener, 11 to 7, while the Giants crossed the plate seven times in [illegible] frame in the nightcap. New York won the second game 9 to 3. Pittsburgh making four errors.

Cincy Reds Win

Cincinnati stunned the Cardinals, 9 to 4, and advanced to sixth place.

Hitting honors for the day went to the Senators who scored [illegible] runs in [illegible] inning in swamping the Browns, 11 to 0. Zachary lost his former form to [illegible] while General Crowder, who used to pitch for Washington, was shelled off the mound by the Nats in the sixth.

Babe Ruth was the [illegible] as the Yank's [illegible] the White Sox, 3 to 2. He clouted a triple and his 34th home run.

Indians Cop Two

The [illegible] of the [illegible] Athletics twice, 9 to 6 and 5 to 2. Ty Cobb went hitless in [illegible].

The Red Sox trimmed the Tigers, 8 to 7, [illegible] Detroit's winning streak [illegible].

The Braves and Phillies did not play.

RUTH AND GEHRIG ARE AGAIN TIED

New York, July 25—Ruth and Gehrig, the home run twins of the Yankees, [illegible] tied in their [illegible] Babe [illegible] yesterday, [illegible] homer.

NEW YORK MERMAIDS SET TWO NEW RECORDS

New York, July 25—Two new swimming records were on the books today, made by New York mermaids in a water carnival at Rye, N. Y., starting from the five second mark. Miss Ethel McGary swam 400 metres free style in 4:23 4-5, breaking the universal long course record of 4:29 3-5.

Miss Agnes Geraghty lowered her own American record of 3:20 1-5 in covering the 200 yards breast stroke in 3:27 2-5.

Defeats O. E. Kennedy In Finals; Extra Hole Played To Decide Winner of Tilt

Guthery Cuts Down Kennedy's Early Lead and Wins at Thirty-Seventh Hole; Second Flight Finals Postponed; Other Matches

L. H. GUTHERY, yesterday afternoon [illegible] golf tournament of the Marion Country Club for the [illegible] when he defeated O. E. Kennedy [illegible] 37 holes on the local course.

At the end of the morning round Kennedy was [illegible] up. Guthery gradually cut down on the lead during the first few holes of the afternoon round and evened the match at [illegible] for each hole.

Guthery [illegible] Kennedy [illegible] the third hole and [illegible] evening the match. The last two holes were halved, making it a deadlock at the end of the 36 holes. Guthery won the first extra hole taking the match.

Gave Handicap

Guthery gave Kennedy two strokes on each of the nine holes or a total of eight strokes for the match. The tournament winner reached the finals by defeating Frank Long, three up and [illegible] to play last Friday. Kennedy [illegible] the final by defeating [illegible] Morgan.

The finals of the second flight were not played due to the inability of W. [illegible] to appear on the links when the match was scheduled.

Tiffin comes here Wednesday afternoon for an inter-city match on the Marion Country Club course.

The next golf tourney [illegible] the local course starts [illegible] qualifying rounds for the [illegible] championship will get under way.

Then he began again. Finally Banty owned up that he had a cent and he gave it to him when we had all promised to pay back our share of it. There was seven of us, and I have been thinking about it all day, and I don't know how a fella can pay less than a cent. Butch ought to pay it, because it isn't our fault he has got a kid brother, but he says he is in hard enough luck because he has got to have his kid brother hung around his neck all vacation. As soon as it was so late I knowed Younige and her folks would not be coming over so I went up and pulled Jubilee up and we went to bed.

I was stepping about half a mile to each straddle.

[illegible] are you taking such a while [illegible] your minds for?" asked [illegible] fine name for you. No [illegible] would that I have ever [illegible] so fast, besides [illegible] doesn't make any difference [illegible] like the name or not. I [illegible] Hop o' My Thumb and [illegible]

[illegible] So he can! We [illegible] of all the creatures he [illegible]" croaked the chorus again.

[illegible] give a hop to prove it. [illegible] What shall we do [illegible] The Frogs bobbed their [illegible] looked at each other in an [illegible] Peter smiled. What [illegible] was true—the Frogs [illegible] and curious and some[illegible] were vain of [illegible] Each one wait[illegible] to say something. [illegible] Froggie spoke:

[illegible] nothing." [illegible] "When a Two-Legs [illegible] his mind to do a thing [illegible] Nothing will [illegible] Bridges, just as he says. [illegible] Mr. Thumb is a fine name [illegible] and different!"

[illegible] the Ranidae fam[illegible] a feeble croak. "How [illegible] names?"

[illegible] family! Did you say [illegible] Ha! Ha! That's [illegible] come out when [illegible] Froggie. [illegible]

[illegible] Froggie. "If there [illegible] is moisture, [illegible] of that in wet [illegible] The very minute [illegible] till we are out [illegible] in the rain just [illegible] as we can!"

[illegible] would choke!" declared the Boy. "How can you swallow the drops quick enough?"

"Glug! Glug! Kerplunk! Two-Legs thinks we swallow the drops!" croaked the chorus. "We don't! We can't! We keep our mouths shut! Oh, what a funny Two-Legs!"

Now it was the Boy's turn to be puzzled.

"What do you mean? You said you drank in the rain just as much and as fast as you could, didn't you? How can you drink if you keep your mouth shut?" asked he.

"Very easily, young Human," croaked a deep voice, and, turning, Peter recognized Great Grandfather Always-Catch-It. "We drink through our skins!"

"Through your skins?" echoed the Boy. "Why, you talk like a sponge!"

"You mean I act like a sponge," corrected Great Grandfather Always-Catch-It, and a grin stretched his broad mouth from side to side. "The skin on my body is full of tiny little holes—porous, I think you call it—and not only does it soak in the water but it keeps it for me until I need it. I carry my reservoir on my body. I don't have to build one as you Two-Legs do. Water means life to us Frogs. That is why we love to be soaking wet. Old as I am—and many are the winters I have seen—there is nothing we would rather do than play leap-frog with the children in a puddle."

Next: "Great Grandfather Always-Catch-It."

FEW LOCAL TAX CASES COME UP FOR HEARING

All but Small Per Cent Paid Without Trial, Collector Says

Less than five per cent of the delinquent personal tax cases filed for hearing at the Marion Municipal court have been tried [illegible] to C. R. Randles [illegible] in charge of collections in Marion county.

After suits are filed, Randles states, nearly all persons owing overdue tax accounts pay [illegible] acknowledged judgment. Of the last 105 cases only three were brought up for hearing.

With nearly all of the larger accounts paid up Randles is now turning his attention to the smaller debtors.

Warnings have been sent out [illegible] the back taxes are not paid within 10 days suits will be filed against them for collection, according to Randles.

Some of the accounts the collector states are less than the court costs. Unless paid, however, all accounts regardless of size will be filed for trial.

DR. U. S. DAVIS IS SPEAKER AT UNION SERVICE

Baptist Pastor Portrays Christ as the Only Spotless Figure in World History

"In remembering Jesus Christ [illegible] remembering God, for He is God made manifest in the flesh," said Dr. U. S. Davis, pastor of Temple Baptist Church, in a sermon on the subject "Remember Jesus Christ" at the well attended union church service last night at Epworth M. E. Church.

"Jesus himself wanted us to remember Him, for at the Last Supper He gave the elements to them and said 'Do this in remembrance of Me,'" Dr. Davis continued. "We are to remember Christ's words, for words are the incarnation of our thoughts and Jesus' words revealed Him. By His words I came to know His mind as well as His plan and purpose of salvation.

"We are to remember His spotless life. After the fiercest light of critical investigation was focused on Jesus for 20 centuries, the testimony of foe and friend is 'holy and undefiled, without spot or blemish.'

Spirituality Outstanding

"We are to remember Christ's spirituality. His was the spirituality of a man who lived among men and illuminated every place He went with the light of the glory of God. We are also to remember His sympathy. He gave us His definition of sympathy that we are to weep with those weep and rejoice with those who rejoice.

"We are also to remember Jesus' simplicity—his transparent sincerity and His serenity—the quiet calmness which possessed Him when others were swept by passion and excitement, because He recognized God as His Father."

Birger, Illinois Gangster, Sentenced To Die On Gallows

COLUMBUS WOMAN ON "MYSTERY" BOY'S TRAIL

Thinks Elusive Youngster is Her Step-Brother She Tells Police

CHIEFTAIN IS CONVICTED BY BENTON JURORS

Population Breathes Easier as Hyland and Newman Get Life Terms

[illegible] Charlie Birger [illegible] Franklin [illegible] pending the [illegible] for [illegible] of Mayor Joe Adams of West City [illegible]

[illegible] late yesterday afternoon [illegible] Birger guilty [illegible] on the gallows.

[illegible] and Ray Hyland [illegible] Birger's [illegible] the murder of Mayor Adams [illegible] guilty and sentenced [illegible]

[illegible] the electric chair as the official [illegible] will not save Birger [illegible] the law provides that only those sentenced for crimes [illegible] this year will [illegible]

If Birger hangs he will be the first [illegible] executed legally in Franklin county.

Although the scenes of the past where Birger [illegible] convicted [illegible] with armed guards [illegible] jail delivery [illegible] breathed a sigh of relief today. The people are glad the trial is over. They have been under a fearful nervous strain [illegible] knowing what minute Birger gangsters might level their deadly machine guns on the little courthouse in an effort to rescue their chieftain.

Deathlike Silence

The report late yesterday of the [illegible] who have [illegible] the verdict for 21 hours with [illegible] was drama at its peak. A deathlike silence spread over the crowd as the jury filed into the box. Their [illegible] suspense. Every [illegible] was white.

Birger was the exception. He alone in all that crowd appeared at ease. His reckless bravado did not desert him. As the foreman intoned the solemn words that condemned him to death on the gallows Birger only grinned.

A number of the business men of this and other counties disclosed the fact that merchants had exerted their attention on the Birger trial and all were well pleased with the outcome. It seems to be the general opinion that Franklin County [illegible] flaunted by Birger and his [illegible] has been vindicated and that Little Egypt so long in the throes of the struggle for supremacy of southern Illinois gangland can lift its face to the sun again.

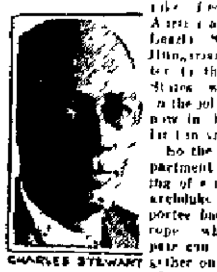
The reign of King Birger appears to be ended. His privy counselors, his courtiers, his captains and his jesters have scattered to the four winds.

It's Queer Expression That Brings Duel Challenge

So State Department May Send Archduke Back Home To Fight

BY STEWART P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, July 26—It [illegible] a pity to let a little thing [illegible] the distance between [illegible] and Budapest [illegible] Archduke Leopold of Austria and Count Szechenyi, Hungarian minister to the United States when he's on the job but just now in his home [illegible] vacation.



CHARLES STEWART

So the labor department is thinking of [illegible] the archduke as a deportee back to Europe where the pair can get together on the field of honor.

IT seems [illegible] is a fighting word in German or Hungarian or whatever the idiom may be.

It's queer about these foreign expressions.

A man can be called a camel in this country without particularly arousing his ire except in a prohibition argument, but in France it's a deadly insult.

The normally peaceable Chinaman will slit your throat if you tell him he's a turtle—at any rate without smiling.

In any of the Spanish-speaking countries the worst thing you can say about an enemy is that he's sin verguenza—without shame, which isn't complimentary certainly, but not in English worth committing homicide over.

"TAKLOSS" is the one term that gets an Austrian archduke's goat.

Leopold, seeing America, was broke, or nearly so, at Hollywood and sending home for some money asked to have it remitted to him by way of the Hungarian legation.

This would have been okeh before the war.

Then the Austrian emperor—Leo was the late Franz Josef's grandnephew—was also king of Hungary.

The two shared the Austro-Hungarian embassy.

But now, with the pair divorced, to have Leopold, an Austrian, giving the Hungarian legation as a financial reference, [illegible] Count Szechenyi—who by the way married one of the Vanderbilt girls and consequently has oodles of dough.

"Takloss" was how he characterized it in a wire to Leopold.

"YOU'RE a takloss"—Leckey came back the archduke.

(And when you recall the way folks like the Szechenyis [illegible] the very ground the archdukes walked on in the old days of the empire you can hardly blame Leo for feeling pretty hot under the collar.)

"I slap you," he continued—by telegraph of course.

Naturally that called for blood.

The last thing the count did before sailing on his vacation was to leave word for Leopold that he'll wait for him in Hungary to scrap it out with any weapons Leo cares to nominate, as soon as he can get there.

HOW soon this will be is uncertain. Leo at latest accounts not only was still shy traveling expenses but couldn't even meet hotel bills and had been driven to camp out in his automobile, according to reports coming to the attention of the labor department.

"What!" exclaimed the labor department when it heard this news. "Down to his last automobile? We can't have pauper aliens in the country." And the department started an investigation straightaway to decide whether it will [illegible] to let the air [illegible] way here any longer.

So maybe that's the way the [illegible]

[illegible] Birger [illegible] Lonely [illegible] [illegible] say he would [illegible] [illegible] of [illegible]

Mystery Boy" and Other Youthful Wanderers Here Brings Numerous Inquiries from Cities in Ohio and Nearby States

[illegible] runaway boys [illegible] held for [illegible] or release [illegible] the city [illegible] other states [illegible] received [illegible] parents of [illegible] Ohio cities [illegible] descriptions of [illegible] Cleveland Heights [illegible] of a son [illegible] missing [illegible]

[illegible] S. J. Hutchinson of Ostrander has asked the police to help find his 10 year old son who disappeared from home last Friday and who has not returned. He is thought to be [illegible] with another boy by the name of Richard Cook. The missing boy [illegible] described as being of medium size and wearing working clothes.

Call from Findlay

This morning the police received a call from the police department at Findlay asking them to be on the lookout for a 15-year-old boy who had disappeared from his home in that city. The boy's name is given as Arthur Porter and a scar on his neck is given as an identification mark.

Other calls came from Sandusky, Lima and the Lima police station, J. Mitchell, Ashland and two from Lorain.

John Bendie, 13, of Akron who was recaptured after his escape with two other runaways including the well advertised mystery boy last week was taken [illegible] by his brother George [illegible] Sunday afternoon.

The whereabouts of the mystery boy who gave his name as James Otis Darr and Stanley Nicholas, 12, who said his home was in Detroit still unknown according to latest reports. Darr who refused to reveal his identity when taken into custody was last heard from after he had purchased a ticket and was aboard a train for Detroit.

After police of that city had been notified and they were not able to catch a glimpse of the runaway there, it is believed that the lad left the train at some other point along the route.

Local officials are under the impression that the epidemic of runaway boys is caused by the quest of adventure with some of the lads having the Wild West complex.

son of the time of his political activities but the duties of the office are to make prosecutions for violations of the law."

10,000 Documents

Until his conference with Henry Johnson he indicated he would not reveal any details of the persons involved in the new evidence found.

It was at Stephenson's instructions sent out from his prison cell at Michigan City that the two black boxes and filing cases containing the 10,000 documents—enough to fill a Ford truck—were turned over to Johnson.

The story of how Johnson obtained the black boxes formed a background of romance and mystery that placed the Stephenson case on a parallel with the nation's best ghost story seller.

Johnson accompanied by a deputy prosecutor of Marion County and [illegible] kleton waited at a prearranged rendezvous for the stranger who appeared in a small truck. On the machine were two black boxes. These were unloaded and opened in the shade of a tree. Johnson pried open the smaller box and found a keyring containing 40 keys, one of which fitted the lock of the larger box.

"Government Astounding

We sorted over the letters and documents until long past midnight," Johnson said. "Finally we had one thousand important letters."

Johnson stated he believed the letters would not be made public until criminal prosecutions are instituted.

Much of the correspondence had to do with Klan activities and others his political machinations.

The super-government Stephenson had built up from the throne from which he was tumbled when he was convicted of murder at Noblesville, Ind., in 1925 was simply astounding. Johnson continued. He had secret agents in all parts of the country.

W. F. McGuire, manager in Daviess County of the Ford Motor Co., who talked with Johnson and viewed some of the correspondence said he saw letters which purported to indicate that the murders of a woman and a child in New Jersey blamed on Catholics had been carried out by Klansmen and that the Klan gained 6,000 new members on the strength of the demonstrations in connection with blame for the murderers."

TAX OFFICE CROWDED AS COLLECTION NEARS END

A large number of last minute taxpayers crowded the office of the county treasurer today to pay their semi-annual assessments before the doors close tonight.

County Treasurer James Messenger stated today that there will be a comparatively small percentage of delinquencies.

For the accommodation of persons unable to pay today, Treasurer Messenger has arranged for the office to remain open from 7 until 9 o'clock tonight.

Checking of the books will get under way Tuesday and they will be placed in the hands of the county auditor in the near future.

CHICAGO MAN SPEAKS ON LAW ENFORCEMENT and installed an engine taken from an old motorcycle.

The first test was not a complete success although it was probably the only airplane equipped with a motorcycle engine and a homemade propeller which ever left the surface of the earth.

Ferguson was able to get his makeshift conveyance two feet off the ground but that was not flying he decided.

IT was returned to the workshop and Ferguson ordered a regulation airplane motor equipped with a factory made propeller. He bought these from a friend in Dayton who had started to build an airplane and gave it up as a hopeless task.

Then came Saturday, July 2, with a two and a half-day holiday vacation ahead for Ferguson. He selected this time for trying out his finished product.

Saturday noon he dismantled the airplane—this operation is possible in 20 minutes—and started out in search of a flying field, carrying the machine on his automobile. He obtained permission to use the Thibaut farm, a short distance west of Green Camp, which has since been the scene of his experiments and flights.

Ferguson sought to stage the tryout without witnesses but within a short time after his arrival at the field, about 50 automobiles were lined up along the roadway and he had a large and decidedly interested crowd of spectators.

HIS first venture was partly unsuccessful but Ferguson was [illegible] discouraged. The machine left the ground but instead of rising gradually upward took a [illegible] sweep toward the sky [illegible] probably 100 feet and began [illegible] like a modern [illegible] the [illegible]

Ferguson sat tight and came to earth safely. He decided that the [illegible] apparatus needed adjusting. This work he did at the field and [illegible] returned on July [illegible]

[illegible] stands as Ferguson's crowning achievement up to this time. He piloted his machine to an altitude of about 400 feet and remained up almost three quarters of an hour according to his estimate.

But the self-trained pilot was not destined to have smooth sailing from then on. On Wednesday afternoon [illegible] the [illegible] turned to the field and tried again. This time the machine ascended a short distance and crashed to the ground breaking the propeller.

NOW Ferguson has the product of his mechanical genius in the [illegible] and is making a number of repairs and improvements which he says will round off [illegible] The front section of the fuselage will be strengthened with steel rods and a new propeller installed.

The repairs and improvements will be completed in about two weeks [illegible] and he will again start flying operations at the [illegible] farm.

As soon as he is satisfied with his ability as a pilot and also with his machine as a safe and dependable conveyance he expects to make [illegible] flights.

His first trip [illegible] will be to Russell's Point [illegible] states.

Ferguson hopes that eventually he will become sufficiently adept at flying and airplane construction to devote all of his time to the business.

HIS machine is a [illegible] plane and is similar to factory made models in general construction and appearance. Ferguson has used some of his own ideas however. For instance he states that there are no crossed wires in his machine eliminating danger of any being broken by friction. This feature is not found in other airplanes he says.

The plane is a single seater, has a 28-horsepower engine, weighs 300 pounds and can attain a speed of [illegible] miles an hour, its designer and builder says. Its cost complete is about $350.

The wings are 20 feet in length and the fuselage measures 16 feet. The machine has a lifting capacity of 750 pounds while traveling [illegible] miles an hour and will leave the ground after running over a 75-foot course on its wheels at 27 miles an hour, Ferguson states.

The frame work is constructed of spruce and red wood and fuselage and wings are covered with linen coated with airplane paint.

FERGUSON says that he was absolutely certain that he would be able to pilot his machine the first time that he sat in the cockpit.

"Never had the least fear," he says. "Lost all that in my motordrome racing days."

Ferguson's wife, comely mother of four attractive children, laughed when asked if she was apprehensive over her husband's first venture as an untrained pilot.

"What would be the use," she says. "He made up his mind he was going to go through with it and there was no stopping him. I was sure from the start that he would come through safely."

Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson's children are Paul, 12; Mary, 11; Frank, 10, and Jack, [illegible]. The aviator's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ferguson, Park blvd.

Ferguson was asked if he had ever thought of giving his conveyance a name.

"I might call it 'Suicide,'" was his reply.

This remark was not made seriously however for Ferguson has unlimited confidence in his machine and believes that it is entitled to the most high-sounding title available.

From Loss to Gain

Some weeks ago we made mention in these columns of the prediction of the officials of the United States Merchant Fleet corporation that the United States Lines for the first time in the history of their operation would show an operating profit for the fiscal year ended June 30 last. At the time the Merchant Fleet corporation officials estimated that his operating profit for the year would be at least $ 90,000 and might possibly reach half a million dollars against an operating loss for the fiscal year ended June 30 1926 of $650,000

A prediction is one thing and a result is another. Estimates are well and good when nothing better is at hand but actual figures are far more satisfactory to one who is seeking facts. In many cases the actual figures do not bear out the estimate but in this case they do, they even improve upon them

The direct operating profit of the United States Line was $6[illegible],000 but the sum of $274,000 was charged off this total for administrative expenses of the fleet corporation leaving a net operating profit of $[illegible] for the fiscal year 1927 and this is so despite the fact that the most popular vessel of the fleet and incidentally the most popular vessel afloat—the fine steamship America was gutted by fire through a negligence of the employes of the shipbuilding corporation which was reconditioning her the day before she was to have been turned back to the government

The five remaining vessels of the fleet naturally could not do the passenger business previously done by the six. The America was one of its largest vessels and there was a consequent loss in passenger business. [illegible] the [illegible] in the freight business of the fleet was [illegible] the passenger [illegible] $110,000 [illegible] operating loss of $650,000 the year before into a net operating profit of $3[illegible]1,000

It speaks well for the popularity of a line which with one of its six liners out of commission can increase its operating profit $1,051,000 in a year and turn a losing [illegible] into a paying one

The Saving Wage

[illegible]

[illegible] per cent to employes

Particularly interesting [illegible] showing that customer [illegible] in recent years [illegible] companies have result [illegible] shares to [illegible] purchasers

Of course the purpose [illegible] in presenting these [illegible] the confidence in the [illegible] industry in the United States and particularly in Ohio. We have no fault to find with [illegible] cut our purpose in reproducing them is different. Our purpose is [illegible] in which the public [illegible] ments. If it has been [illegible] to the extent shown [illegible] can be little question but what [illegible] to as great extent in other stocks not only public utility stocks but also industrial and municipal stocks and government securities

For long years we saw a lot in type and heard much concerning a living wage. The term was always distasteful to us. A living wage doesn't give much in the way of provision for the future. What we [illegible] and hoped to see was a saving wage and we believe that our hope has been gratified. We believe that the so called living wage which was a misnomer for so [illegible] be more than an existing wage—is a thing of the past and that we [illegible] have in its place a saving wage. That all do not save is not the fault of the wage. The wage is sufficient to permit of saving and [illegible] figures herein presented to say nothing of others along the same line demonstrate the worth of this contention

There may have been and there may still be unemployment here and there over the country with consequent attendant hardship but taking the country as a whole the world [illegible] labor so well compensated as it is here in the United States today and has been for a number of years. The way we live the luxuries we enjoy the way we dress the radios we install the cars we drive the savings we put away in banks and building and loan associations the stocks and bonds we buy—all of them are proofs of our general prosperity

To Overcome the Sea's Fury.

With its rotor making 1,300 revolutions a minute, read a wire story from Philadelphia a day or two ago, a new gyro ship stabilizer was subjected to all the rigors of a heavy sea this afternoon as naval architects and engineers looked on to see how the apparatus would perform. It is to be installed in Mrs Richard M Cadwalader's $2,000,000 yacht now being built at Wilmington

We knew of the use of gyroscopes on ships to stabilize their compasses. One is in use on the Leviathan and we believe that quite a number of the larger and finer Atlantic liners use gyroscopes for that purpose but that one is to be utilized for the stabilizing of an entire vessel and a vessel of no mean size at that is something decidedly new to the most of us

The new yacht upon which the giant gyroscope given its initial test last week is to be installed has a length of 29[illegible] feet a beam of thirty eight feet and three inches a draft of sixteen feet and a displacement of 2,700 tons. To stabilize a vessel of such proportions the architects and engineers realized would necessitate a monster gyroscope and to that end the one constructed is nine feet high and ten feet wide the rotating gyroscope being eight feet in diameter. Complete it weighs twenty ton which will not prove an extra burden on the yacht as its 1,500 horsepower engines are of the Diesel type which require but half the space which would be occupied were the yacht steam driven

The conditions met during a spell of foul weather were such as to satisfy the [illegible] and builders of the gyroscope as well as the naval architects and engineers [illegible] the test that it will prevent [illegible] storms counteracting every [illegible] the yacht smoothly through [illegible] seas

BRING THEM ALL IN

We are indebted to the American Forestry association for the information that only [illegible] states [illegible] this union are now with [illegible] forestry [illegible] The [illegible] and the [illegible] states which have taken [illegible] out of the derelict column in the past are Florida Delaware and South Carolina. States still without a suitable [illegible] are Nevada Arizona New Mexico Arkansas and Wyoming

After the experience with the recent flood it is to be assumed that Arkansas is [illegible] not that forestry [illegible] to give the other states to understand that Arkansas is ready and willing to help in the solution of the flood problem. The western states [illegible] legislation as badly as eastern states

In Ohio we are nearing the time when 7,000,000 young trees are to be planted every year. With recent movements the tree planting has grown by leaps and bounds and no longer is a novelty. The time when a man who planted a forest tree was regarded as something of a freak is fast passing by. The coming generation has begun to realize its folly and where the fathers wasted the sons would conserve.—Cincinnati Enquirer

CANADA'S GRIEVANCE

Canada feels as [illegible] aggrieved because many men educated partly at public expense leave the Dominion and come to the United States to enter business and the professions

Twelve per cent of the Toronto university graduates [illegible] are practicing in this country. Other universities report even greater numbers one having thirty two per cent of its graduates here

A thousand graduates were asked by a magazine to tell why they left Canada to make their homes here. Replies were received from about a fifth of the number located in thirty four states the majority of whom said that the prospect of larger remuneration brought them here. Family and personal reasons health and climate were given by a few of the graduates but all there came for the same reason that so many come from every part of the world. While but few leave this country the best on earth to live elsewhere and speak disparagingly of it thousands come in and thousands more await their time to enter.—Youngstown Vindicator

SPEEDING UP THE MAIL SERVICE

Since progress in the mail service has taken wings the speeding of the mails has been a continuous wonder tale like something out of the Arabian Night

Now a Washington correspondent of the Daily News makes it known that Chicago's new post office is likely to have a landing field for mail planes on its extensive roof. Apparently there is no good reason why all the arriving and departing planes that carry mail should not use that admirable facility thus eliminating much trouble and delay greatly to the benefit of business men and others throughout the whole area of the United States

The [illegible] rapid mail transmission together with [illegible] new mechanisms making possible train [illegible] in the brief period of ten minutes gives some idea of the immense advantages to be derived from [illegible] greatly needed and long awaited post office. It is safe to say that the nation's postal [illegible] and the people's business will find that post office one of the most profitable investments of public money that could possibly have been made—Chicago News

"What's the matter old man?" said the skeleton sympathetically

"The—the elephant has died," sobbed the strong man as if his heart would break

"Well—well," sobbed the strong man, "the boss says I've got to dig his grave!"

He was the typical city visitor supercilious and inquisitive. He had wandered about the little country town noisily and offensively amused at its rustic simplicity. In the course of his meanderings he came upon a native fishing in a nearby stream. The old fellow was seated over the edge of a dock gazing intently at an apple which dangled from the hook of his line

Our hero approached

"Say old fellow what're you doing there?" he asked obviously amused

"Fishin'," said the native lazily without looking up

"Well what the apple for?"

"Bait"

"Bait? Aren't you using a worm?"

"Yep"

"Well where is it?"

"In the apple"

Much talk about charm. Some people have [illegible] some have not. What is it? Robert Schauffler author says that charm is the result of being physically and spiritually so much a part of the life of things that you irresistibly radiate the concentrated essence of all life and personally exemplify the same laws that whiten the cherry orchards in April and kindle the volcano and swing the stars on their courses

That is a clever definition but complex. Perhaps people who have charm are the ones who listen well who seem very much interested in what [illegible] have to say and who seek few opportunities to put forth their own opinions. To have charm is to have a real earnest interest in others

MURDER CITED AS CAUSE OF LORAIN MAN'S DEATH

Body of H. A. Purgett, 33, Found at Roadside Near Sunbury

Delaware, July 25—The body of H. A. Purgett, 33, Lorain, believed to have been murdered and thrown from an automobile by his slayers, was found in a ditch at the roadside a mile west of Sunbury, near here, yesterday.

Sheriff's officers said Purgett had been killed by three blows on the head.

The body was found by a passing motorist who notified the sheriff's office.

It was learned that he left Lorain Friday, intending to go to Fostoria to visit a daughter.

Beyond this authorities today had been unable to trace his movements.

The only clew obtained, the officers said, was the presence of a Ford sedan parked along the roadside for several hours last night near the spot where Purgett's body was found.

Several persons reported seeing the car parked along the road but no [illegible] description of the machine has been obtained.

Relatives of the slain man have been notified and were to confer with officers today in an attempt to aid in the search for the slayers.

GALION SCOUTS RETURN AS CAMP TERM ENDS

Others Plan To Enroll for Remaining Periods at Avery Hand, Jr., Camp

Galion, July 25—Boy Scouts who have been attending the Avery Hand Jr. camp near Mansfield have returned following the first period of work at the camp which is under the supervision of Lloyd Dent, scout executive and well known sport director. Other groups of Galion scouts are planning to enroll for the remaining camping terms. The local troops were well represented and the scouts returned with a number of honors in various departments.

Girl Scouts of Troop 1 who have been enjoying an outing at Lake Galion have also returned. Misses Dorothy Moore, Martha Ransdell, Hilda Schoedc and Gertrude Hocker who served as instructors and chaperons report an unusual camp record and a successful completion of the outlined courses. Work will continue and with the opening of school two more troops will be organized in order to accommodate all the girls of Galion who are rapidly gaining enthusiasm in scouting.

MT. VICTORY TEAM WINS GAME AT LAKE IDLEWILD

"Bo" Nichols Triumphs Over Former Teammates in 4-3 Duel

Kenton, July 25—Mt. Victory gained the jump on the Kenton Reds in the three game championship series which got under way by taking the initial battle by a 4-3 score.

Bob Nichols, former twirler for the Reds, proved himself the better of Noel's Hathcock who in former days received his offerings back of the plate and emerged the victor in a mound duel.

An interested delegation of Mt. Victory fans filled a large portion of the Lake Idlewild bleachers for the opening of the county title series.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY BOARD VOTES TO DISBAND

Hardin County Organization Will Not Sponsor Exposition This Fall

Kenton, July 25—The Hardin County Agricultural Society which has been in existence for the past two years and has sponsored two county fairs here was disbanded at a meeting of the board of directors Saturday night.

As a result of the action taken, the society will not sponsor another fair here this fall and the Hardin County fairgrounds will revert to the Hardin County Fair Co. owner. George [illegible] secretary of the fair company stated today that there is a possibility of the original group sponsoring the exposition this fall and that final action will be taken at a board meeting scheduled for late this week.

CLASSICAL MUSIC WINS IN VOTE AT CHAUTAUQUA

Galion Audience Shows Preference for High Class Selections

Galion, July 25—A decided preference for classical music was shown in a contest conducted Saturday night when the Gilbert Revelers made their appearance before an enthusiastic audience to furnish one of the finest of Chautauqua programs. After a short dramatic sketch in which the spirits of opera and of jazz were both represented, the company, which consisted of a double quartet with accompanist, presented numbers of both types, the audience serving as judge. Several well known opera selections were given and various modern melodies sung. A very noticeable liking for the classical numbers was the result of the vote taken.

For the first part of the program the Revelers, attired as gypsies, with the scene depicting a gypsy camp, featured characteristic songs in chorus, quartet, duet and solo arrangements. The decided hit of the occasion was the "Song of the Vagabonds" from the popular operetta "The Vagabond King." For the second part the regular concert program with the contest as special event, was given.

"The Biggest Corn Crop Any 10 Acres Ever Grew"

(Editor's Note: This article appears in The Star through the courtesy of The Farm and Fireside Magazine of New York City and is taken from the current issue. Its author is Wheeler McMillen, of the Farm and Fireside staff who was formerly a Hardin County farmer. He is well acquainted with farming conditions there and with Ira Marshall, the corn growing champion of the world.)

By WHEELER McMILLEN

LAST fall a little before corn husking time Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey put on boxing [illegible] fought for 40 minutes to decide the heavyweight boxing championship of the world.

Shortly after that Ira C. Marshall, who rents a 200 acre farm in Hardin County, Ohio, started his corn harvest. When he had finished and state college men had checked up the final measure of the yield from a 10 acre strip in 1926 he was for the second time proclaimed the world's champion grower of corn. He had grown ten acres that averaged more than 168 bushels an acre, the biggest corn crop that any 10 acres in the world ever grew. The year before he took his first world championship with over 160 bushels an acre.

Dempsey was paid $700,000 for losing his fight by a decision. Tunney received $200,000, won the championship and the certainty of getting [illegible] hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Awarded Cups

Marshall [illegible] the world championship [illegible] a silver cup or so for Mrs. Marshall to dust and polish, a gold medal or two, a few pieces of farm machinery from firms seeking to advertise their products, numerous invitations to pay his own expenses to meetings to tell how he raised his big crop, and a small trip or so with his expenses paid on his own time.

If you desire to draw any moral from it, go right ahead and draw while I [illegible] to tell the real story that lies behind the almost incredible but officially certified corn crops that Ira Marshall grows. I farmed in Hardin County myself once and know the men concerned.

The story begins with the soil out of which the big corn crops come and back of that soil is Ben Comer, the landlord who owns it. Ever [illegible] who ever rented a farm from Ben Comer stayed on Comer's land until he left to buy a farm of his own. That helps perhaps to describe the landlord. He is president of the First National Bank in Ada. All the credit for the corn crops belongs to Marshall [illegible] the photographer spent two months trying to coax Comer into his studio to make the picture you see with this article.

Wants Soil Kept up

"You can't build up a farm by taking fertility off of it," he says when [illegible] the barn talk about his part in Marshall's achievement. "I put up a 150 ton [illegible] silo, 16x45 feet, soon after I got that farm. That fixed us up to feed cattle. We usually have around 80 head every winter, hogs along with them. With the cattle year in and year out we average a little over the market for our corn and keep up the soil. Can't make it every year with cattle but the average is better than selling the corn and we have the fertility on the farm."

That last phrase recurs whenever Comer talks farming. It is what he believes in and practices.

"We're what you might call partners, Ira and I. It's my ground and his work and machinery. We [illegible] divide the dollars."

The Comer-Marshall farm is 200 acres of very level land with a [illegible] loam soil that has been most [illegible]. Once it had a thin coating of vegetable muck, being in the edge of a formerly marsh tract, but the muck has nearly all [illegible] and burned away. The soil is good but not phenomenal. Sixty or seventy bushels is considered a good yield of corn on the neighboring farms where fertility has not been so intensely conserved and built up.

Raise Alfalfa

"We raise lots of alfalfa," Ira Marshall says. "The field that had the 160-bushel corn yield in 1925 had been in alfalfa for seven years. Alfalfa keeps making the fields better every year. We feed it to the cattle and the manure goes on to make the fields still better.

"When a piece of alfalfa begins to slip we put it into corn, generally for two years. Then a crop of small grain and back to alfalfa.

"All the field last year was plowed nearly 10 inches deep with a tractor. With the disk harrow and cultipacker I made a thorough seed bed. Used 200 pounds of fertilizer and [illegible] tons of cattle manure per acre.

Planted Corn Thick

"I planted the corn 32x32—that's lots closer, of course, than customary. It's what you can do with seed good enough to stand the load. That's 19,800 stalks to an acre, about 2,000 more than last year when I planted [illegible]. I set the planter to drop four grains on one side and three on the other. Of course the seed is all tested. No profit in raising barren stalks just for fodder. We put a light coating of manure on top of the ground after planting.

"I cultivated the crop three times. Almost all the field work was done with the tractor. That includes the harvesting. Did that with the corn picker. Have had one for several years and wouldn't want to be without it.

"I owe my success [illegible] and cooperation of the [illegible] versity. The agricultural college men have gathered [illegible] best [illegible] there [illegible] All I have [illegible] that information [illegible] was intensive farm [illegible] the place of extensive farming [illegible] we've got to get [illegible] yields that intensive farming produces if we are going to make money."

Costs Figure Low

The cost of this big crop [illegible] used to produce it was [illegible] a bushel. At that rate [illegible] make money on pretty cheap corn.

There you have briefly the [illegible] story of the biggest corn crop that any 10 acres in the world ever grew. Marshall, the tenant, the man responsible for it, is a friendly fellow who smiles easily, has worked like the dickens for years and is highly popular among his neighbors and the people everywhere who know him. He is an active member of the local grange. He has two [illegible] and two daughters, the youngest is [illegible]. The oldest boy, [illegible], who is starting to college, handled 10 acres by himself in the 4-H Club corn contest last year, winning the championship with 150 bushels an acre, not far behind his dad.

And this summer, while Babe Ruth collects his $70,000 a year for hitting a baseball several [illegible] a few feet farther than anyone else can, Ira Marshall is getting in his long hours and trying to produce another bigger and better world's championship 10 acres of corn.

RICHWOOD WINS GAME IN ELEVENTH INNING

Ray Roseberry Is Victorious Pitcher in 4-3 Duel as Prospect Loses

Marysville, July 25—In an interesting and exciting 11-inning contest, Richwood defeated Prospect in the Heart of Ohio League yesterday, 4 to 3. The game was a pitchers' battle in which Ray Roseberry, Richwood, shaded Tyson.

Richwood led up to the eighth frame when Prospect tied the score and Richwood scored one in the eleventh on two hits and an error. Waldorf led with the stick for Prospect with three safe blows and Ray Roseberry and Herrett for Richwood with two each. Score:

Teams		R	H	E

Richwood	111 000 000 01—4		7	2

Batteries—[illegible] and Johnson; Ray Roseberry and Tyson. Umpires Mc-Land and Reider.

ARTISTIC TEMPERAMENT RUINS MARRIAGES, CLAIM

Madame Cavalieri Glad To Be Free Again, Former Opera Singer Says

Rome, July 25—Mme. Lina Cavalieri, former grand opera singer, who was called formerly one of the world's most beautiful women, believes that marriages between persons of artistic temperament usually ends upon the rocks.

"I am glad to be free again," declared Madam Cavalieri today, referring to her recent divorce from Lucien Muratore in Paris. "Artists' marriages are seldom successful even when as in my case one withdrew from the stage limelight to help the success of the other.

"But anyway I feel that I did my duty to the end even though misunderstanding engulfed us. When Lucien left me I had only one close [illegible]. I am in Rome only on a business mission. My residence will remain in Paris.

"I am delighted to visit my native country, since I am an enthusiastic Fascist and devoted to the duce (Mussolini) whom I admire, although we never have met."

Madam Cavalieri still is radiantly attractive although saddened by the melancholy conclusion of her latest matrimonial venture.

UNION SERVICES HELD AT CHAUTAUQUA TENT

Marysville, July 25—Union services held in the chautauqua tent Sunday morning were well attended by local church goers who represented every church in the city. The sermon was delivered by Rev. A. F. THREE INJURED IN CRASH ON KENTON STREET

Cargo of Liquor Seized by Police as Rum Car Driver Escapes

Kenton, July 25—Three persons were injured, two automobiles wrecked and a cargo of alleged liquor seized by city police as the result of a collision at the intersection of Main and Lapsley-sts. early Sunday morning.

Authorities were continuing efforts today to locate the injured driver of the rum car who disappeared immediately after the accident. A straw hat bearing the name of a Detroit merchant and a Michigan auto license, No. 1[illegible] were the only clues.

The remaining two injured in the crash were Bert McGrath and Miss [illegible] Brown, both of Ridgeway. They sustained body bruises and cuts. Medical aid was given at a local physician's office.

Hits Ridgeway Car

Police reported that the accident occurred when the fleet rum car drove onto the main thoroughfare from Lapsley, striking the Ridgeway machine. The rum car turned over twice and alighted on the top. [illegible] Star Coal merchant, was the first to reach the wreck and he freed the driver of the rum car from the wreck. The escape was made in the excitement which followed.

Patrolmen Thomas and Dempster removed [illegible] gallons of alleged liquor and a case of Canadian beer from the wreck. Officials hold the theory that the liquor cargo was being transported to Columbus.

ANOTHER MARION CITIZEN FREE OF NEURITIS PAINS

Says Konjola Also Cleared Up Miserable Case of Stomach and Kidney Trouble

In the worst forms of neuritis the pains are piercing—just like hot daggers cutting into the nerves said the Konjola Man yesterday at The Stump Pharmacy 121 South Main St Marion,

MR BEASON HEFFLEY

where he is introducing the new medical product Konjola to the people of Marion and vicinity

"Many authorities have stated that the agony of neuritis is likened unto an electrical shock the terrible pains may grab the sufferer at frequent intervals coming more often each time Some call the affliction neuralgia others say it is like rheumatism but in either event it is a terrible affliction and one of the most agonizing diseases mankind is heir to" continued the Konjola Man

It is surprising what this new medical preparation Konjola, will accomplish in so many instances of neuritic suffering By invigorating the inner organs to healthy action, and stimulating the liver and kidneys the poisons throughout the system are eliminated, the nerves become stronger and within a brief space of time this Konjola brings amazing relief to the neuritis sufferer Many people in Marion are strongly indorsing Konjola for the suffering pains of neuritis Just a few days ago, Mr Beason Heffley [illegible] Superior St this city made the following remarkable statement

"Besides stomach and kidney troubles I was suffering dreadfully with neuritis" said Mr Heffley "My arms were affected with awful pains and the muscles in my shoulders and neck seemed to draw up and pull at every nerve across my back I could not sleep at nights and my kidneys were so weak I always had back aches and got out of bed 4 or 5 times a night My digestion was poor and I suffered miseries with my stomach

"I spent all kinds of money for medical attention and different remedies before I found out about this new Konjola But now I am free of the awful pains in my arms and shoulders and I sleep peacefully at nights The kidney trouble and night rising is gone and I eat anything without stomach trouble I will always praise Konjola for the great relief this medicine gave me"

The Konjola Man is at The Stump Pharmacy (Stump & Sons) 121 South Main Street Marion where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy [illegible]

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER II

"HELLO! Back from lunch al[illegible] I was just going out for [illegible]" Jerry Macklyn burst [illegible] and almost upset Vera [illegible]

"I—I was—" Vera began to [illegible] her in the [illegible] of the [illegible] over her [illegible] person. "[illegible] Mr. Macklyn, I'm sorry I flew out of [illegible] office in such a temper. I [illegible] me really [illegible] Won't you—[illegible] you please forgive me?"

Jerry Macklyn stared at her a moment, uncomprehending, then burst into a roar of genuine amusement. "Forgive you? Sure! I guess I wasn't very tactful. You see, I know what I want and I [illegible] it, and sometimes I don't spend enough time on my approach, as the psychology sharks put it. But I knew you'd be back—knew you'd change your mind as soon as you had time to think it over. It's a swell idea, you [illegible]. I've been going over the ads Peach Bloom has been putting out, and they're lousy. Far as I can see there's not a reason in the world why any woman should buy Peach Bloom instead of any other line of cosmetics—from the ads, I mean. Got to make them think we've got magic to sell—"

"I hope we have," Vera cried in a voice so poignant with need that Jerry Macklyn's eyebrows shot up his forehead.

"What made you change your mind?" he demanded.

Vera's pale face flamed with color. The very suggestion that she should tell anyone in the world about the miracle that had happened to her—the miracle of falling in love with a stranger who had merely walked into the same elevator with her—made her dizzy with horror.

"I—I want to be—a help to you—" she began painfully, her hands twisting together.

"Oh, come clean, child!" Jerry Macklyn laughed at her. "I said if this Peach Bloom stuff is any good, or one-tenth as good as the company claims it is, that I could make you into a beauty. And you want to be a beauty. That's it, isn't it? Sure it is! You're human, even if you do wear [illegible] shoes and long skirts. Say, what's the matter with your legs, anyway?" he asked anxiously. "I know they aren't skinny from the sample you show," and he cocked his flaming red head at the modest six inches of well-shaped calf that the unfashionably long skirt revealed.

"Mr. Macklyn!" Vera cried, stung to tears.

"Now don't say 'How dare you, sir?'" Jerry chuckled. "Good lord, child, don't carry a chip on your shoulder! There's absolutely nothing personal in all this. If I'm going to play Pygmalion and make a beauty out of you I'll be hurting your feelings a dozen times a day if you want to take it like that. Be a good sport, won't you?"

He grinned at her with such an irradiating boyishness as he thrust out a hand that she capitulated suddenly, gave him her hand, smiled at him, her rare, wide, sweet smile that showed her perfect teeth and made her mouth an adorable and almost irresistible invitation.

"Whew!" Jerry Macklyn whispered, his whole face lighting up with amazement and pleasure. "Some smile! Those lips! Those teeth! That nose! [illegible] this isn't going to be half the job I thought it was. Take off your hat!" he commanded.

She lifted off her hat and at a gesture from him followed him into his private office. He grinned at her over his shoulder as he turned the key in the lock.

"I'm not taking any chances on being interrupted for a few minutes," he chuckled, then his face went blank as he saw her face grow rigid with fear and distaste. "Say— Miss Cameron! what do you think I'm going to try to do? Get fresh with you? Judas Priest!" The fervor with which he uttered his favorite exclamation made her illogically angry, a fact which he refused to comment on. "You can trust me, Miss Cameron! I'll swear by all the prophets and sign a contract to that effect if you want me to. But for heaven's sake don't keep slowing up the works. Now—do as I tell you to, or the whole show's off. What say?"

Every instinct of Vera's repressed nature shuddered away from the indignities which she could sense that the future, if she agreed, held for her, but more powerful than instinct was this terrible new need of hers—to make herself into the kind of girl that could attract and hold the love of a man like the stranger whom she had heard called Schuyler.

She drew a deep, quivering breath and [illegible] her hands in a gesture of surrender. "I'll do anything you say if [illegible] keep your word and make a—a [illegible] of me."

"Good girl!" he applauded. "I can't guarantee results. That's largely up to Peach Bloom cosmetics, but I've got a whole bag of tricks besides the beauty treatments. Clothes, carriage, manner, psychology—oh, girl dear, I can make you so different your own mother wouldn't know you! Now—[illegible] your hair. Remember—[illegible] said you'd do anything I told you!"

Her hands trembled as she drew the [illegible] out of the flat braids that encircled her head twice. They fell below her waist, those braids, and she was [illegible] of their extraordinary length.

"Unbraid it!" he commanded her. "I want to get an idea of the real [illegible] and the texture of it. Here, I'll help you."

She was glad then that he had [illegible] the door, for his big fingers began [illegible] at one braid while she, with the expertness of long practice, untwined the three strands of the other. When her hair hung free she took a comb from her purse and ran it through the rippling mass that formed a cape about her shoulders.

"Pretty stuff, hanging like that," Jerry Macklyn told her. "But a girl can't go around using her hair for a cape, and when it's all bundled up on her head it's just so much excess baggage. Now off with the goggles! Can you see without them?" And he lifted the horn bows of her spectacles from her ears.

"I can see perfectly without them, but I had headaches for a month two years ago and the oculist prescribed glasses—" she began, closing her eyes for a moment to accustom them to the [illegible] which the amber tint in the lenses had minimized and changed. Then she opened her eyes wide and faced Jerry Macklyn.

"Judas Priest!" that amazing young man ejaculated fervently. "Why in the name of all that's holy didn't you tell me you had green eyes?"

"Why should I have told you that I had green eyes?" Vera retorted angrily. "I can't help it if they're green—"

"Help it? Why, Judas Priest, child, you should be thanking God every night on your knees for those eyes of yours! Green? As green and clear and sparkling as sea water? A pair of emeralds set in your eyes, and you trot off to an oculist and pay him good hard cash to cover them up for you with yellow glass. Oh, my sainted aunt! If I were a girl what I could do with a pair of eyes like those!"

"What would you do with them?" Vera twinkled the extravagantly praised eyes at him, but a shy dimple tugged at the corner of her kissable mouth.

"Oh, I'll teach you, never you fear," Jerry Macklyn's [illegible]. "Here! Let me get an idea of what shape your head is under that cloak of hair."

She stood quite still while he strained the heavy masses of her mousy brown hair back from her forehead and [illegible] tightly at the nape of her neck with his encircling hands.

"An artist's dream head!" he exulted. "High forehead but not too high, a narrow, small head but not too small, a long slim neck. Why, girl, you ought to be sent to jail for grand larceny—stealing from your own self!"

"I'm—I'm—I'm not so hopeless," Vera gasped happily.

"Now for the bad news," Jerry Macklyn said briskly. "Eyebrows all wrong—thick and straight, and almost meeting in the middle; eyelashes not long enough or thick enough. Guess you batted the life out of the poor [illegible] against those goggles of yours—"

"I can't go without glasses," Vera cried. "The oculist said I couldn't."

"Here, let me have a look at those glasses! And then I'll squint a bit into your eyes—"

"What do you know about eyes and glasses?" Vera demanded impatiently as he squinted at her glasses with one eye closed in a highly professional manner.

"Me? Why, I wrote advertising copy for the National Optometrists' As[illegible]" he chuckled at her. "And I always study the line I'm in. These glasses are for nothing but a very slight farsightedness and the most minor astigmatism. Not enough to give you any real trouble. Nobody's eyes are absolutely perfect. Throw 'em away!" he ordered her abruptly in his lordly manner, tossing the glasses contemptuously to the top of his desk.

Joy and resentment battled for a moment in Vera's completely upset mind, then joy won and she smiled at him again, brilliantly. "Go ahead! [illegible] the inventory! What else is wrong with this picture?" She thrust her face up toward his almost provocatively, impulsively.

Jerry Macklyn took one step back[illegible] and for the first time during their extraordinary interview he looked at her as if she were a girl, a desirable girl.

"Freckles!" he said, with exaggerated sternness to cover his own confusion. "And no color! And your skin is too dry, young woman! I'll bet you've been washing your face!"

"Of course I have," she told him indignantly. "Good soap and water—"

"Not when our marvelous, revivifying, [illegible] beautifying Peach Bloom Cleansing Cream is available!" he boomed at her like a side-show barker.

They both laughed then, and in that shared laughter they became friends.

"I'll confess that I was so sure you'd change your mind that I left word for the crack demonstrator of the company to come up to my office this afternoon at three. Miss Proctor, it is, and they tell me she's a whiz with this Peach Bloom stuff. Then I'll trot you over to a swank photographer for the first picture in the series. Oh, boy, it's going to be a knock-out! Something absolutely different!"

"A photographer?" Vera cried, turning away from him. She had completely forgotten, in the intensity of her need to become beautiful, the price she must pay.

(To Be Continued)

Photographs are only a minor incident, Vera learns. There are other and greater sacrifices, but she determines to make them.

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

IT was with a distinct feeling of triumph that I leaned over and kissed Lillian when she announced her decision to come to the farm with her young daughter Marion. It had been a task which I had feared was impossible —this convincing her that Mary Harrison's repentance was so sincere and her character so changed that Marion would not be harmed by close association with her, but I had won and I knew that never again would the question be raised.

Lillian is as royal in her amends as she is inexorable in her judgments. I recognized the tender, speculative look which had come into her eyes. Already she was planning how she could make up to Mary for the prejudice she had entertained against her. That Mary knew nothing of the elder woman's feeling mattered no whit to Lillian. It was her own sense of injustice done which she was trying to appease.

"Do you suppose Mary would care for a motor trip with Marion and me?" she asked. "You know I told you I was going to get a little car and take Marion on short house hunting trips. I want a little place for Summers—and that's no slight to the farm, either."

She wrinkled her nose at me, but I caught a look in her eyes which told me that she feared my aversion to her plan.

"Before I answer your question about Mary," I told her with a smiling but intent look fixed upon her face, "I'm going to set myself right upon this question of your house hunting. I don't need to tell you that you and Marion are members of the family at the farm house and that we'd be glad always to have you with us. But I know how you feel about Marion having a home of her very own to which her friends can come, and I agree with you. I hope you find just the thing you wish, and I warn you that I shall be your most frequent guest—"

"If you use that word," she threatened, "You mean that you'll be the first additional member of our family."

"Yes, that's better," I acquiesced. "And now I'm ready for that question about the motor trip. If you mean take Mary for a trip of a day or two—fine. She'll love it. But kindly remember, my dear, that you haven't seen Marion very much this first year of her school, that you're both hungry for each other's companionship, and that these precious trips of yours on which I know you have so counted, shouldn't be shared by anyone."

"But," she said, "I have misjudged the girl, and—"

"And, therefore, you think it would be a good thing for you to put sackcloth and ashes on your head. Lillian! You're as bad as Mary with her complex for confessing to everybody in sight, beginning with her grandmother. No, my dear, I'm going to take you in hand and [illegible] that [illegible] conscience of yours. I did think you were illogical and unjust in refusing to come to the farm because Mary lived there, but having changed your mind so generously about that, don't go to the other extreme. Remember, Mary knows nothing about that attitude of yours, so no harm has been done. And if you let anything interfere with these precious jaunts of yours with Marion, I'll—I'll—well, my vengeance will be something terrible."

"I shiver to think of it," Lillian laughed. But there was a relieved note in her laughter which told me that she gladly welcomed my dictum.

"You know," she went on thoughtfully after a little, "I sacrificed one person to my desire to give Marion just the atmosphere I wanted, and the remembrance of it has troubled me not a little. I am glad you have saved me from having another piece of injustice on my conscience."

I suppose my face showed the absolute astonishment which was mine, for she laughed, yet with no mirth in the sound, as she said quietly:

"Didn't you know that I would have gone back to Harry if it hadn't been for Marion?" (Copyright, 1927)

HOW MRS. WEAVER WAS HELPED

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

As Mrs. Weaver herself says, "I was never very strong." This is a mild statement describing her condition for according to her letters she was subjected to no small amount of ill health. For [illegible] her sister was familiar with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged Mrs. Weaver to try it. "After three or four weeks," writes Mrs. Weaver, "I felt a great difference in myself. I would go to bed and sleep sound, and although I could not do very much work I seemed stronger. I kept on taking it and now I am well and strong, do my work and take care of three children. I sure do tell my friends about your wonderful medicine, and I will answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. LAWRENCE WEAVER, East Smithfield St., Mt. Pleasant, Pa.

If you knew that thousands of women suffering from troubles similar to those you are enduring had improved their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, wouldn't you think it was worth a trial?

"Oh, Mrs. Brown, come in and see my MAYTAG!"

THOUSANDS of enthusiastic Maytag owners are extending this invitation to their friends every washday. Other thousands are accepting our standing invitation: "Phone for a Maytag on trial."

Even though you know that the Maytag's washing ability has been vouched for by a friend, we want you to try it before you buy it.

Your satisfaction will be greater when your choice is made by convincing yourself by actually washing with the Maytag in your home.

We want you, too, to try the Maytag in your own home. We want you to see the big roomy tub wash clothes thoroughly clean in 3 to 7 minutes; an entire washing in an hour; and to see the edge-dirt disappear from collars, cuffs and wristbands without hand-rubbing.
